LYNDA HYDE

8/10/21 - 17/10/21

As the days of lockdown have turned from weeks to months, I feel everyone has had a sense of “Yester Déjà Vu” recently.

The paintings and prints in this exhibition, my first for Day Gallery, are mostly very recent works. The abstracts explore colour, shifting points of focus and some contain an element of deception or surprise, reflecting my early career in magic and illusion.

I've always been fascinated by modernist design and there is an intersection between Op Art, Hard-edge Geometric Abstraction and Colour Field painting that I love.

The beauty of working in abstracts is that I invite the viewer to put their own meanings and interpretations onto the works, the audience and the viewing are an integral part of the painting.

I'm also particularly pleased with the new Lino Prints, they explore a technique I've not tried before and I think there will be more in this series in the future.
